HEART TO HEART TALKS

By EDWIN A. NYE.

COUNT YOUR BLESSINGS.

Said a woman of my acquaintance: "Last year my husband was ill, and now my daughter is threatened with tuberculosis. The cost of living is high, and my husband's salary is only $1,000. Why are we put into this world to suffer so? Sometimes I feel that life is not worth the living."

I was sorry for the woman, and as I had known her a long time I took the liberty to say:

"But you own your own home and you have never lacked for necessary things."

"Moreover," I said—

"The problem of suffering, like that of sin, is an old one, but I think it a mistake to fall into the habit of thinking that one is luckless beyond others. There are a lot of people all about you worse off than you."

Doubtless my suggestions went in at one ear and out at the other.

Privation? Suffering?

Why, this woman did not live in a ramshackle tenement up a rickety stair. Her husband did not come home from the corner saloon with empty pocketbook and heavy handed with liquor.

Hardship?

She did not live in a two room and closet apartment where you buy coal by the scuttleful, bread by the loaf and ice by the penny's worth.

Destitution?

She had never haunted the butcher shops late of a Saturday night when the very poor do their pitiful marketing to buy for almost nothing remnants the butcher will sell—a cheap soup bone or a neck of mutton.

No; this woman did not know.

She did not know that to find a quarter of a dollar for the slot of the pay gas meter may be a financial problem and rent day a real tragedy.

She had never heard her children cry of cold in winter. She never knew what it was to partly starve a living child to pay the funeral expenses of a dead child.

Perhaps she doubted if any lived in this way because "one half the world does not know how the other half lives."

That's it—out of our ignorance of conditions we complain.

We are as illogical as the querulous woman—comparing our lots in life with those of the more fortunate.

That is error.

Go along the streets with open eyes. For one person who is better off than you there are a dozen who are not.

RESPONSIBILITY.

Lay your burdens on me.

The man who can say that to his fellows is stronger than they.

Because, as a rule, men seek other shoulders upon which to lay their burdens. And there is that big word that goes with big men—

Responsibility.

Said the American colonists of the last quarter of the eighteenth century, "Taxation without representation is tyranny."

"Yes," said they all, "but who will bell the cat, George III.?" And the Hancocks and the Jeffersons and the rest of the immortals said:

"We have signed the protest. Let the commons gaze away."

Responsibility.

Washington said, "Put the responsibility of the army on me." And that made Washington great.

Responsibility.

When Napoleon announced his Italian campaign smaller men said, "But you can't get an army over the Alps." Napoleon showed his greatness by assuming that responsibility.

Shirking, helpless, men flock to those who offer their shoulders.

Responsibility.

They told Fulton his steamboat would not go up stream, and Stephenson that his locomotive would not pull a load, and Morse that his telegraph would not work, and Bell that his telephone would be dumb, and Edison that his electricity would not be cheap enough to ... and—

Why multiply proofs?

Responsibility lets the real man that is inside of you out, reveals yourself as you are to yourself and to those who put their burdens upon you.

Do not shirk responsibility.

And if you ... your child to succeed do not hesitate to put responsibility upon his shoulders.

Look at that woman of the orient bearing her heavy burden! How firm her neck! What superb balance of ... Erect, how she watches her steps!

Responsibility.

Shoulder your ... load will fit you ... the bearing of the task.

HIS HOUSE AND YOURS.

Would you exchange YOURS. costing $3,000,000 and be in a home mind? ... no peace of

The mansion of John D. Rockefeller at Pocantico, N. Y., cost ...

Underneath the room ... much, floor where Mr. Rockefeller ... the second wide veranda, on which ... sleeps in a day and night, an armed guard ... down,

A correspondent says that ... walks ... ing the night when the billionaire ... often during not sleep he opens the window and calls down:

"John, are you there?"

... like a terrified ... in the dark and calling ... knows some one is near. ... to Envy the man?

No, indeed. As for me, I ... for a little cottage of three or four rooms where the vines grow over our porch and there is a rose tree in the front yard and an old fashioned garden in the back yard and where ... abides.

Lest we forget—

Let us say it over again to ourselves that these rich human beings are much like the rest of us. They, too, are men of sorrows and acquainted with grief. In their lives mingle the bitter and the sweet as in ours.

They, like all mortal mariners, must make the perilous pass of the stormy sea of human life.

And their food tastes no better than ours—oftentimes not so good. Nor do they sleep better than we. And their loves have no sweeter flavor than ours.

But, you say—

Rockefeller has got not only his own share of this world's goods, but he has taken some of your share and some of mine and some of everybody's.

Granted.

But suppose Mr. Rockefeller really has the billion dollars they say he has and suppose he were to divide the sum equally with all the citizens of this country, how much, think you, would you get?

Just that.

As for me, he may just keep my $ ... if it will do him any good, and also his home of grandeur where an armed guard ... the porch to keep him ... away.

humble, where peace and comfort and sweet sleep and faith and love and heart's ease abide.

And you?

Will you not join me when I say, I do not envy you your gorgeous guarded home, Mr. Rockefeller.

IF.

If Grouchy had not taken the wrong road there would have been no victory of the allies over Napoleon at Waterloo and the map of Europe would be different.

If!

If Charles I. had not signed an order to prohibit a shipload of farmers from going to America he might not have lost his head. Cromwell and Pym and Hampden—three signers of his death warrant—were to have gone on that ship.

If!

If a nameless aid on the staff of General Thomas at the battle of Chickamauga had investigated what he thought was a gap in the Union line the Confederates would not have poured through the real gap, which was made by the movement ordered by Rosecrans, because of the careless aid's report, changing an almost certain victory to disaster.

If!

Hundreds of historical incidents might be cited to show how the peradventure of a trifle has enormously changed the face of human affairs.

If!

You can look back over your own experience in life and say, "If so and so had not happened"—

And that "if" at the time seemed but a trivial thing.

Great events have turned on such a trifle as the cackling of the geese that saved Rome. Personal events may be traced to such small things as the sneeze of a child, the smile of a woman, five minutes' delay, the missing of a train—links in the chain of events that have changed the course of a life.

If!

Are there, indeed, any really little things in human affairs? Each trifle may be correlated with some other trifle which, in its turn, is related closely with human destiny.

If!

In the realm of business it is an adage that "trifles make perfection, but perfection is no trifle."

It is so of morals.

The chain of individual life is composed of three great links—habit, character, destiny. And a chain is no stronger than any of its links.

If!

If your habits are good so will your character be. If your character is good so will be your destiny.

REST AND RELAX.

Alone!

Do you know there are a lot of people who pronounce that word with fear? To be alone, if only for a short time, is regarded as a bore, if not worse.

You wonder why?

Because they have never become acquainted with themselves and do not know how to entertain themselves for a single hour. They really need to be introduced to themselves.

Solitude?

There is need of it. The mere friction of mingling with other persons becomes wearing, however little one may realize it. And there can be no real culture of self except there be occasional solitude.

Watch the faces on the street.

See the set expression, the lines of solicitude and weariness, the worn looks. How seldom you see a calm and happy face!

I saw one placid face the other day It was the face of a woman I know. And I know the cause of her calmness and poise.

She is a woman with a good sized family and many cares, but she is careful to take a certain hour to be alone for a short time each day, when she lies down for rest and relaxation.

Husband and children know and respect her moments of quiet withdrawal. They know she is the sweeter and better wife and mother because of that stated rest of mind and body.

Another instance:

A Chicago business man of very large affairs lunches alone not because he is stingy, but because he finds strength in a quiet moment by himself. His associates understand and do not disturb him.

And another:

A Des Moines lawyer in active practice at eighty years says the secret of his vitality is in a five minutes' nap he has taken in the middle of the day for the past fifty years.

Practice being alone.

Under the strain and tax of household duties the delicate, nervous system of women especially becomes overwrought. Rest and relaxation come as a benediction to the tired spirit.

Alone you can think your best thoughts and work out your special problems.

All great men and women have cultivated solitude.

Alone they have gained victories over self and have then been able to face a frowning world with cheerful effort.

Seeing Your Own Brain.

In Professor Lloyd's work, "The End of the World," the experiment of seeing one's own brain is interesting. The experimenter, with a lighted candle, enters a perfectly dark room. He stands before a black curtain or wall, so that details cannot be seen by the candle's feeble light. The candle is moved laterally to and fro in front of the eyes, keeping it about six inches from the face and just below the tip of the nose. In a few minutes something, as if a thin mist, seems to grow before the eyes. It becomes more definite and gains outline, and then soon one may distinguish the venation and the division of the brain. The theory is that the moving light produces a counter irritation of the nerves that conduct the impression of sight to the brain. The current is reversed, and the brain is pictured on the retina. Then the impression returns through the nerves and affects the brain so that we see it.

Shepherd and Sheep.

A minister was once addressing a Sunday school. It was a Sunday school of little children, and the minister in his address desired to compare himself to a shepherd and his congregation to the shepherd's flocks.

"What are these beautiful animals?" he said, pointing to a drawing on the blackboard.

"Sheep, sheep!" chorused the children.

"And ... the cloaked figure in the foreground—what is he?"

"A shepherd!" the children cried.

"Exactly," agreed the minister, beaming with satisfaction. "And now, dear children, can you tell me what it is that ... the shepherd does for the sheep?"

A score of ... and a score of little mouths opened wide, shrilly ... of treble voices cried ...

TULLYTOWN TOPICS

Many nice sun fish are being caught near here.

A Philadelphia gentleman friend of Mr. Jennings visited him over Sunday.

Dr. Biehm is better and is able to go around again we are pleased to relate.

Margerums have a great many summer boarders at present from various places.

Harry Moon's family spent a pleasant day at the island opposite Florence last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Lovett are comfortably located in their new home in our little village, and we welcome them heartily.

When we feel the nights getting cool and see the chestnut burs developing so closely to maturity it reminds us that the summer will soon be gone.

The morning service in the M. E. church last Sunday was well attended and the choir rendered splendid music. We are glad to see the young people take such a good interest in the choir.

Mrs. Elmer Johnson, who has lately undergone an operation at Philadelphia, is back in her home again and is getting along nicely. Her many friends heartily greet her upon her return.

Mr. Vandoran is home again after a short visit to Pennington, N. J., where his mother resides and is at present suffering with a broken arm and numerous bruises caused by a fall down the stairs.

The Gillinghams have been honored by the presence of the following in their home during the last week: Mr. Stone, Mr. Stackhouse, Mr. Lyons, and the boy singer, Charles Akers, of East Orange, N. J.

Let it be remembered that you can get an ideal supper at Tullytown Harvest Home, Wednesday, August 16. Adults, 30 cents. Under 12 years, 20 cents. Street car and train service. Music in evening by Grim's orchestra, of Bristol.

Twenty-two of our young people were out for a hay ride last Saturday night, but did get back finally after driving eighteen miles to get home, when the shortest route home was just six miles. They all report having had a good time.

Preaching service in the M. E. church Sunday evening, August 20. Song service, 7.45 o'clock. Sermon by pastor, 8 o'clock. Subject: "Seeing Things." Good lively song service and some special singing. You come and enjoy it.

Peter Meinherr, our barber, has recently purchased the row of old houses on Main street, and is going to repair them for renting. It certainly will make a great improvement on that street and will greatly advance the valuation of neighboring properties.

Mrs. Harry Lafferty, superintendent of M. E. Sunday school primary department, and daughter, Helen, who assists her, held a picnic at their home for all included in named department, Monday, August 7. There were about thirty children represented at the picnic.

Penn's Manor Locals.

C. W. Stryker, of Trenton, was the guest of George H. Bruer on Saturday last.

Miss Sarah Wooley, of Trenton, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Anderson.

Thomas C. Ivins, of Washington, D. C., is visiting his brother, Arthur C. Ivins and family.

Rev. John Girton preached a profitable sermon in the chapel last Sunday evening from the text, Isaiah 60:8.

Mrs. John Neely will lead Christian Endeavor next Sunday evening. Topic: "Small Beginnings of Intemperance."

Miss Elsie Buckman, of Philadelphia, is spending her vacation at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. James R. Stinson.

Mrs. Gade, Mrs. Herman Schroeder and son, Ira, of Trenton, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Seidensticker.

Mrs. William H. Booth and father, Thomas Bradford, spent a few days last week with Walter Wilkes and family, of Perth Amboy, N. J.

We were pleased to see Elwood Leland, of Tullytown, on his usual butcher route last Saturday, after a months' absence, due to illness.

George B. Mershon and family, of near Morrisville, were entertained last Sunday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Mershon.

Miss Freda Greenlee who was taken violently ill of acute indigestion last Sunday afternoon, is slowly improving. Dr. Kunsman, of Morrisville, was summoned.

Beauty Hints for Men.

The Emporia Gazette, of Kansas, gives some timely beauty culture hints for men. Here they are:

The whiskers should be combed carefully every morning, in order to remove egg shells and other debris.

A man with a broad, fat face should not wear side whiskers.

A man with a long, lean face should not wear chin whiskers.

False teeth should fit the wearer's mouth. Nothing is more annoying to people of culture than to meet a man whose teeth ... down ...

LETTER FROM DOYLESTOWN

News and Comment of Affairs at the County Seat by Our Correspondent.

Doylestown, August 9.

The school board at the county seat has been having troubles of its own in consequence of the new school code, but with the exception of the proposed annex, seems to have overcome the greater part. Its new four years high school course has been approved by those in authority at Harrisburg. The old Brick house has been fitted up satisfactorily for one new school room and two others will be located in American Mechanics hall on Oakland avenue. They have not as yet secured a music teacher because this year music teachers come high. Professor Carmon Ross, the principal of the school, was sent on a scouting trip to Ithaca, N. Y., and reported plenty of good teachers to be had and some will be sent for and terms probably agreed on. School tax collector, John C. Copple, is gathering in the cash and the board will start with a substantial balance in the treasury for the first time in several years. John is quite methodical and has compiled a table of tax payers that is quite interesting. it is as follows and is given by wards.

	1st.	2d.	3d.
Real Estate Owners	177	110	132
Non-Res. Owners	54	63	74

	1st.	2d.	3d.
Real Estate Owners	235	186	257
Tenants, Single men	210	210	323

It will be observed that comparatively speaking the county seat has but few single men, only one hundred and sixty-three and the most of them are widowers. There are 464 resident real estate owners, 215 non-residents and 748 tenants. With our good and progressive Building and Loan associations we hope to change this in the next few years.

A gay Lothario, one Russel I. Wipred, who, although quite a young man, is said to have contracted quite a number of matrimonial alliances, since he left his native home in Northampton township and who some months ago was hauled into court by his wife, or one of his wives, on a charge of non-support and who put up fifty dollars in cash as an evidence of his willingness to comply with the order of the court and then eloped with a county seat young girl, has been located in Chicago, where he is held awaiting a requisition from Governor Tener. Sheriff Henry S. Beidler started for Harrisburg on Tuesday with the necessary papers and will probably bring young Wipred home with him this week. Wipred has very winning ways and more than one of the young and attractive maidens at the county seat were the victims of his charm. He worked at his trade as a carpenter, but according to his tales he was a mighty hunter and trapper and his various exploits, all imaginary, caught the fancy of the girls. When he faces Judge Staples next month he will be just as meek as meek can be and his many hairbreadth escapes will probably have no effect with the judge or jury.

Preparations are already being made to give the 104th regiment a rousing reception on the fiftieth anniversary of their marching from the old fair grounds to the county seat off to the war of the Rebellion. Not only will the Sons of Veterans take hold and help make the occasion a grand success, but also all of the other patriotic organizations, including Camp 631, P. O. S. of A., will join in and make it a very memorable occasion.

For a long time residents of south Main street have been protesting against the very reckless rate of speed of the Rapid Transit cars down the hill. On Monday morning the long expected accident happened. A. C. Larue's milk wagon, in charge of John Dumer with a boy, who was helping him, Harrison Martin, was caught by the rapidly moving car in charge of motorman James Reading and conductor Edward Karl, and literally ground to pieces. So terrific was the impact that the wagon was carried nearly a hundred feet and it is almost a miracle that the occupants escaped with their lives, as it was they were badly bruised and all of the milk bottles in the wagon broken. Chief Burgess Joseph R. Swartzlander saw the car and had made up his mind to notify the trolley company of the danger they were causing by their fast running. Of course they will pay the damage but if borough council does its duty it will provide against accidents of this kind occurring in the future.

The discovery of the cause of the chestnut blight by Thomas D. Candy, of Langhorne' is attracting much attention at the county seat and expert woodsmen here say that if he is correct, and they seem to think he is, it will save millions of dollars to the country not only in the wood but also in the valuable crop of nuts produced.

The only fire for years that resulted in the entire destruction of a building in or near the county seat occurred last Friday. The tenant house on the Warden farm, a mile from the nearest fire plug and almost that far outside the borough limits, was totally destroyed. The family were away and a farm hand lighted an oil stove and then went off and left it with the inevitable result, it caught fire, so did the house. The fire company responded but were entirely too late to save anything but surrounding property.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hart have issued invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Rebie Purdy, to Dr. Joseph Rankin Swartzlander, at their home at noon on August 22d. Miss Hart is a granddaughter of Colonel Joseph Vansant, who at one time owned Neshaminy Falls Park, before it was a park, and after selling it, moved to Virginia. He had but one child, a daughter, Miss Grace Vansant, who married John Hart, President of the Doylestown Trust Company and one of Doylestown's most financiers.

ELECTRICS SHOCKED

Errors Help Give Bristol A.C. an Easy Victory and McNichol Pitched Great Ball.

On Saturday last the Bristol A. C. easily defeated the General Electrics, of Philadelphia, with Rapp formerly of the Bristol boys, pitching, by the score of 7-3. The features of the game were the playing of Landreth at first and the the remarkable pitching of McNichol who fanned 17 men.

Bristol F. C. Defeats Newtown A. C.

On last Saturday afternoon at Hulmeville the Bristol Field Club meet the strong Newtown A. C. and played the best game of the season on the Hulmeville grounds. The Field Club winning the game by the score of 3 to 0. The features of the game was the fine pitching of Mitchell for the Field Club he having 13 strikeouts to his credit and only allowing his opponents three hits, the alround work of Roper at short stop and Sogalla, at first base are noteworthy, Hutchinson and Dafter played the best for Newtown. The home team scored all their runs in the first inning. Barton hit a dandy for two bases, Rabiger struck out but Rus scored on Armstrong's double and the latter scored immediately after, when Butts also doubled. The latter scored when Costigan threw wild to catch him stealing third base. After this inning the home team could do very little with Sweeney.

Burlington hit Reese hard in the third inning, when they scored five runs on five hits, a sacrifice fly, two stolen bases, two bases on balls and two errors, and with one out, Reese was taken out and Rapp took his place, striking out Costigan, and Baker was out on a fly to Butts.

Had Rapp been properly supported the visitors would have scored but two more runs, but with six hits, coupled with four errors and two stolen bases, the visitors scored four runs.

The all-around work of Butts and Armstrong featured for Bristol while the hitting of Baker, McQuade, Ash and Sweeney and the fielding of Travers was good. The line-up:

NOTES OF THE GAME.

Burlington grabbed the first one.

The best play of the game was Armstrong's running catch. It was a pippin.

Bobby Costigan looked as natural as ever, as did McQuade, who formerly played here.

Sweeney got off in one inning with three pitched balls, another inning he struck out the side.

Dickson, of the Old Point Comfort Club of the Tidewater League, Va., played first base for Bristol.

Five game series has been arranged between Bristol and Burlington. The next game will be played on Sunday, August 20th.

Next Sunday Frankford will be here, which will be the deciding game of the series. It now stands one apiece. It will be a fight to the finish for supremacy. Armstrong will pitch for Bristol.

It was one of those days that everything looks bad, particularly for the home team. They can't always break that way, all our luck came in one inning, the first. But after, oh, my! and how it was helped along.

Ash's long drive to the truck patch only netted him two bases. Guess he knew that Armstrong knew how to pick tomatoes and it would be easy for him to pick up the ball which he did. Pays some times to play farmers.

As there has been so much comment and complaint in the last few games about the umpiring a change will be made and a neutral umpire will officiate in all future games. The Philadelphia Inquirer will likely attend to this most important matter.

Reese got himself in bad in the third inning when he fielded that bunt of Baker's which was rolling foul and made a bad heave of same. This, added with base on balls, was his undoing, not only this but there were other slips that got him in bad also.

Baker, the visitor's first baseman, had one hit, but was credited with three, the scorer failed to see Reese's bum heave on his bunt and Barton's error on his long fly in the first inning. Piper's fast running beat out an infield single cleanly fielded and handled but got no credit for a hit. This was reported by the same reporter. Why not give it in right?

Things looked very rosy for the home club with that three run lead, and the way the home players opened up on Sweeney, but fate was against the home battery on several occasions, particularly in the seventh inning, when Armstrong, the first man up, singled. Butt's foul ball ...

... He... the President ... revision which ... him, indicates that ... know exactly what the ... expression coined by the ... Dolliver) also know what they want

The President's advisers are opposed, for instance, to legislation of any kind that would interfere with the Payne-Aldrich protection wall, which gives to the American tariff trusts immunity from competition by virtue of which they are free to charge consumers exorbitant prices without outside interference.

WHY TAFT FAILED.

When the history of Mr. Taft's administration is written, his failure to win the sympathy of the people will no doubt be attributed to his selection as advisers of men who are not in sympathy with the needs of the people of the country.

Let us see who the men are surrounding President Taft, who know exactly what "they" want; and who, through having practically a monopoly of the President's ear, have been able to deceive him into the belief that he is acting the part of a real statesman if he vetoes legislation of the very character that he promised the people before election in order to secure their votes.

"KNOW WHAT THEY WANT."

In his cabinet Mr. Taft has Secretary of State Knox, former steel trust attorney, Attorney General Wickersham, former sugar trust attorney, and Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagle, former attorney for the Waters-Pierce (Standard) Oil Company.

Then in his immediate family circle the President has Brother Charles Taft, who is so constituted temperamentally and financially that he can ... only from the view... view legislation ... "Big Business" views it; point that "Big ... W. Taft, a and also Brother Harry ... member of the New York law firm of Strong & Cadwallader, which represents the sugar trust, Wall street and the great industrial corporations.

For substantiation of any advice the President may receive from these sources, he has but to call on Senator Lippitt, Aldrich's successor from Rhode Island. Mr. Lippitt is one of the millionaire beneficiaries of the struggling cotton trust, and knows exactly what he wants. Others who know what they want and upon whom the President relies are Penrose, Smoot, Guggenheim, DuPont and the balance of the ring of special privilege servers in the Senate.

And here is a list of the men whose advice is not sought by Mr. Taft: La-Follette, Clapp, Cummins, Bristow and all genuine progressive Republicans.

These facts tell their own story. There's no chance for the President to do anything for the people as long as he has his present advisers around, and from present indications he has no intention of taking on a new set of advisers.

MORE ABOUT CONTROLLER BAY.

The attention of the Graham investigating committee which is probing the action of the President in secretly aiding the Ryan landgrabbers to seize Controller bay in Alaska, ... directed to a report of the ... survey which shows that ... tract is underlaid with oil ... which President Taft ... exploitation, is now de... far greater value than ... dreamed. In his recent ... planation of the Controller Bay ... glery the President attempted to make it appear that the tract is really of little value. He claimed that the grant did not give Speculator Ryan, supposed agent of the Morgan-Guggenheims, a transportation monopoly to the great Bering river coal fields. Both former President Roosevelt and Gifford Pinchot declare that the President's statement is a misrepresentation, and that to all practical ends he has given away valuable public rights which it was his sworn duty to protect.

WILEY'S ENEMIES EXPOSED.

"I want to say frankly to you that the referee board was organized and put into action for the very purpose of conserving the interests of the manufacturers, so you would have a safe hearing."

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson sometime ago made this statement to a committee of manufacturers, according to testimony just presented to the committee on expenditures in the agriculture department.

It will be recalled that the organization to which Secretary Wilson was alluding—the Remsen board—reversed the findings of Dr. Wiley when he ruled against the use of benzoate of soda by embalmed beef manufacturers. The same board overruled Wiley many times, finding excuses for letting down the bars to the food dopers on the merest pretense of reasons.

The weird rulings of the Remsen board caused friends of honest foods to suspect that it had been organized to thwart Dr. Wiley, and to "conserve" the interests of the manufacturers instead of to conserve the public health and Secretary Wilson's frank statement to the manufacturers merely confirms the justice of that suspicion.

TEACHER'S SALARY RAISED BY BOARD

Miss Parks Had Flattering Offer to Go to Business College, But Will Remain Here.

A special meeting of the Bristol school board was held on Monday evening to consider the question of increasing the salary of Miss Clara M. Parks the instructor of the commercial course of the high school, who had been offered a similar position with the Pierce Business College of Philadelphia, at a salary of $900 a year. Miss Park's salary as instructor in the Bristol school was $60 a month for a ten month term.

President Leech explained the purpose of the meeting. He declared his belief that the business college was attempting to embarrass the Bristol school because of the success of the new commercial course here and that the business colleges realized that if the public schools generally in this vicinity adopted Bristol's plan it would naturally injure the success of the private commercial schools.

"There are very few small towns," said the president, "that take up a commercial course. We are one of the first to do it and the business college sees that since this is a success they will lose a good many pupils and they think they will try to break up our course."

It was the opinion of the board that it could not pay Miss Parks $900 a year. Miss Louise D. Baggs, superintendent of schools, who was present, stated she had talked to Miss Parks, who offered to remain for $725 a year with the privilege of teaching whatever private pupils she could secure at nights in the school property. Upon permitting private teaching in one of the public school buildings the board quickly disapproved. The members agreed, however, to offer Miss Parks $72 25 a month. Miss Parks was communicated with and she decided upon accepting it. The board then formally fixed the salary at that amount.

Mr. Foster, the treasurer, stated that he will have sufficient funds from Tax Collector Kraft to pay off a $2000 note in the Farmers National Bank before the next meeting. On motion it was directed that an order be drawn for $2000 and interest to pay off the note.

Mr. Green stated that a runaway horse owned by James S. Fine had dented the fence on the Mulberry street side of the Wood street building and suggested that Mr. Fine be requested to repair it. This question was left in the hands of the property committee and the board then adjourned.

BIRDMEN FLY OVER BRISTOL

Hundreds of Bristol people lined the banks and wharves of the river last Saturday afternoon anxiously watching to get a glimpse of the great aeroplane race from New York to Philadelphia. The papers had announced that the birdmen in this inter-city flight would follow the tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad from New York to Trenton and from Trenton to Philadelphia they would follow the course of the Delaware river.

People began to swarm to the river front at about one o'clock, but it was not until after four o'clock that the throng were apprised of the sighting of the flyers by the blowing of mill whistles.

Instead of following the river's course, the first flyer, who proved to be Beachy, flew over the centre of the town apparently along the line of the canal. Those who did see the areal races saw but a mere speck in the sky no larger than a good size bird.

An hour later Robinson flew over the town high in the air. Ely, the third flyer, only reached New Brunswick, owing to trouble with his engine.

Burlington Wreck Investigated.

The steamer Burlington, which sunk last week in the Delaware above Bordentown, remains in its submerged position and apparently no effort has yet been made to raise the sunken craft.

R. A. Seargent and D. A. Howard, the steamboat inspectors of the United States Government, conducted a secret investigation of the sinking of the boat on Friday. The inspectors refused to make any public statement concerning the investigation because no decision can be reached within a few days.

Captain Gray, who was in command of the boat at the time of the accident, and a number of the members of his crew testified before the inspectors. The district engineers' office, in the Witherspoon Building, Philadelphia, conducted an independent investigation last Monday, and it was found that the boat had been stranded upon a shoal.

Inspector Seargent said that the steamboat would very probably be lifted from its present position in the sand in order that a fuller view of the boat might be obtained.

Statements made by passengers to the United States Inspectors on Tuesday indicate that the bottom of the vessel was crushed by striking a bed of cobblestones which form the river in that vicinity; that the bottom of the vessel was not strong enough to scrape over the rocky bottom, and that the channel was not wide enough at this point to allow the steamboat to be maneuvered in another direction. The accident they say was due to the narrow channel between the dredge Cape May and the mainland, and that the Burlington struck on the hard bottom in endeavoring to pass through this channel.

New Baptist Church Prospering.

Although less than six months old, the Morrisville Baptist Mission has made wonderful progress, and is now one of the leading religious organizations in that community. The congregation has not yet been organized into a church proper, but is under the supervision of the First Baptist church of Bristol.

The members propose to organize for themselves during the coming fall, and then the congregation will elect a permanent pastor.

The pulpit is now being supplied by Willis S. Webb, of Philadelphia, and the mission is advancing under his guidance.

Mr. Webb is a senior student at Denison University, Granville, Ohio. He is filling the pulpit for the summer months. The mission has also made pronounced advancement under his pastorate.

POLITICAL DRIFT.

The Keystone party of Bucks county has filed formal notice with the county commissioners that it intends to nominate candidates for the county offices.

It has been decided by the State authorities that all assessors who were elected in 1910 must be again elected this fall. Assessors elected in November will have four years and one month to serve.

The primaries will be held on Saturday, September 30, and the last day upon which candidates for office can file petitions in order that their names may appear on the official ballot will be Saturday, September 2. Petitions for all county offices must have fifty signatures. The borough and township candidates will be nominated as heretofore, in accordance with the rules of the respective parties, by filing certificates of nomination with the county commissioners at least eighteen days before the day of election.

An interesting development is foreshadowed in Bucks county in the fight for the Republican nomination for county treasurer. Councilman William K. Fine, of Bristol, and Horace G. Reeder, of Newtown, are both active aspirants and it is not likely that either will withdraw for the contest. Fine, it is said, has at last secured the endorsement of the party organization, while Reeder proposes to go it alone to the finish. We cannot gauge the sentiment in other parts of the county, but Bristol is for Fine.

The new road law applying only to township roads makes some important changes. At the election this fall one supervisor will be elected for four years, his term commencing in December, and at the next election for township officers two supervisors will be elected for four years and so alternate thereafter. The boards organize on the first Monday in March, as heretofore, and the law goes into effect in December of this year. The auditors will meet at that time. The provisions as to officers of the board and roadmasters is the same as the present law and their compensation is the same. The township is supposed to recieve fifty per cent. of its ... road tax from the state, provided it is not over twenty dollars a mile, but the legislature has again cut the appropriation so that it cannot pay over five dollars a mile. But all of this money must be spent in what is called permanent improvements, according to the directions of the high... way department, and does not includ... ordinary repairs. The taxes are co... lected by the township collector ... at present. The collector receives ... per cent. up to June 1st and five ... cent. thereafter, same as the pres... law.

BEACH PARTY AND REGATTA

Sensational Motor Boat Wins Race--Canoe and Swimming Races.

A sensational racing motor boat, the "Pee Vee Ho," owned by Peter V. Hoy, of Norristown, gave an exhibition of speed last Saturday afternoon that opened the eyes of the people of this vicinity.

The occasion was the annual regatta conducted under the auspices of the Anchor Yacht Club of Bristol. The little craft, only 23 feet long, but propelled by an engine of 120-horse power, distanced all competitors and went over the ten mile course in 17 minutes and 49 seconds.

The annual beach party and regatta of the yacht club was a brilliant success. The day was ideal and besides the speed boat, canoe and swimming races the crowds were on the look out for the great aeroplane races from New York to Philadelphia. At the conclusion of the river sports Beachy, in his Curtis biplane was seen sailing along high in the air.

The Navigation Commissioners' boat, the M. S. Quay, was anchored off the yacht club's grounds and served as the judge's boat.

CANOE RACES.

The two-paddle canoe race was won by the crew of the Mohican Boat Club, of Florence, N. J., William McHugh and Albert Griffin. They were awarded a paddle. The "in-and-out" canoe race proved to be the more exciting of the two. In this Carlisle Woolman and Earl Page of Pier 4 Social of Burlington, N. J., were victors. Elwood G. Minster and Harry Arnold, of Bristol were in a fair way to win and probably would have done so, had not young Minster lost his paddle in going out of the canoe. The prize in this race was a handsome silver canoe on a pedestal, donated by Burgess Ancker.

SWIMMING RACES.

The swimming race of 100 yard was easily won by Andrew Clark and the swimming race for girls was carried off by Miss Cora Warner. The winner of each was awarded a bathing suit.

SPEED BOAT RACE.

The chief event of the day was the motor boat race which embraced the following entries: Hornet, of Trenton; Pee Vee Ho, of Norristown; V. S. C., of Philadelphia, Joker, of Camden; Therese, of Torresdale.

The course covered a distance of ten miles from the stake boat at Anchor Yacht Club to bouy opposite Badger fishery back up the river to bouy above Florence foundry and back to club bouy.

At the crack of the starting gun the Pee Vee Ho fairly leaped into the river and dashed down the river at a 30-mile clip he immediately taking the lead and won without a skip. The official time made by the racers was as follows: Pee Vee Ho, 17:49; Therese, 22:07; Joker, 25:59; V. S. C., 24:29 and Hornet, 26:17. The three silver cups offered as prizes were awarded to the first three boats.

EVENING ENTERTAINMENT.

The club grounds were handsomely decorated and in the evening were visited by large crowds. An orchestra furnished music and a good time was indulged in. It was a successful affair in every particular.

FAST MOTOR BOAT RACES TOMORROW

One of the most important aquatic events in this vicinity is scheduled for tomorrow afternoon, when the annual race for the championship of the upper Delaware will be held under the auspices of the Delaware River Club, at Torresdale.

Handsome trophies have been provided for the winner and for the boat making the fastest actual time. That the two prizes are by no means likely to go to the same boat is due to the fact that the race is held under the 1911 rules of the American Power Boat Association, which requires each contestant to be weighed as well as measured for water line length and cylinder capacity.

Last year the championship was won by Charles T. Ashman's 35-foot, 50-horse power "Theress," and this boat will again be a contestant, as will this season's sensational racer, "Pee Vee Ho," owned by P. V. Hoy, of Norristown, which eclipsed everything in the Anchor Yacht Club races at Bristol last Saturday. Others likely to start are the "U. S. A.," the "Joker," the "C. V." the "W. E. S. D.," the "Zipp III.," and several more.

The course is to be from a point opposite the Delaware River Club's dock down river to a point on the "Hen and Chickens," thence up river to Beverly and back again, twice around, making approximately a total length of twenty miles. The start is to be at 4.30 p. m., and handicaps will be deducted at the outset, so that the first boat crossing the finish line will be declared the winner. This should appeal to the spectators who often do not learn until long afterwards which boat actually won the race.

The "Pee Vee Ho" is credited with a speed of over 36 miles an hour, having actually done that in competition only last week, but her light weight and enormous horse power will cause her to be heavily penalized under the new rules. In the evening, following the races, the Delaware River Club will hold its regular fortnightly dinner-dance.

Governor Appoints Countians.

Governor Tener has announced these appointments:

An Appeal for Help.

Editor Gazette:—Here is a case where a little timely aid may save the life of a starving infant, and remove any temptation from the path of the deserted young mother, to resort to a life of evil, as the only means where by her insufficient income may be increased.

When attention was called to what seemed a case of wilful cruelty to a five month old baby-girl, investigation bought out the sad fact that the baby was starved to the point of extreme emaciation, and too feeble to even cry. Of wilful neglect or cruelty there was none, for entire cleanliness attested to good care in that particular, and the offer to take the babe was met by vehement and tearful protest.

This mother has to provide, unaided, for herself, a two-year-old child, and the infant. Five dollars per week, her earnings at the mill, must cover their entire needs. This sum is given to the relative with whom they live. The mother nurses her infant before going to work, at noon and at night, and this is all the nourishment it had been getting. Picture to yourself the quality, and probable quantity, of milk that could be produced under the high tension of rushing to and from work, and securing a bite in between. Add to this the mental distress induced by desertion, and the heartless taunts of many of the mill girls, and the reasons for a starving infant are not difficult of discovery.

Contributions can be sent to Dr. William Martin.

Further information will be given if desired by K. S. PEIRCE,
August 10. Bristol.

Church and State.

Editor Gazette:—The Rev. Samuel Z. Batten, D. D., of Lincoln, Nebraska, delivered an able address in the Bristol Presbyterian church on last Sunday night. His topic was: "A New Bristol," and his text was taken from John's Revelation of the new Jerusalem, "And I, John saw the holy city, the new Jerusalem, coming down from God out of heaven."

As we see from his chosen text that new Jerusalem is not heaven up in the skies somewhere but here upon earth. As he plead for new and better cities which can only come through the organization and united Christian forces the question arises, "What is the matter with the church?"

It occurred to the writer that a casual observer ought to be able to discover what is the matter with the church and why the church is not the aggressive force in the settlement of any of the great problems which effect the moral welfare of the nation. The reason lies primarily in the fact that the same men dominate the church that control the political and business life of the world. A large proportion of the politicians, the grafters, speculators, brewers, saloonkeepers are members of some Christian church. The Protestant Episcopal church is largely controlled by its Pierpont Morgans'; the Baptist church, by its Rockefellers'; the Methodist, Presbyterian and Catholic by men of like character. The men who poison our food, who preside over our legislatures, who control our industrial legislation, annul our pure food laws, who oppose the aggressive reforms, are mostly members of Christian churches.

The line of distinction between the world and the church is so thin that one cannot tell where the distinction commences, notwithstanding our Lord's command that we were to be in the world, but not of the world.

Largely did the writer agree with Dr. Batten's address yet it savored too much of the pessimistic, inasmuch that he predicts in a few more generations Christianity will be shelved unless the Christian forces unite and do their full duty. I could never adhere to a "shelved Christianity," but rather the devout men and women who constitute the real church of God and who deplore the prevailing conditions, but who are powerless to remove them, are busy about the master's work of ministry, and everywhere and on all occasions stand four-square to every wind of progress and are leavening the whole lump as the leaven did the three measures of meal; and by and by God, the Holy Spirit, will use these humble few as on that day of Penetcost, to lift up the world to His divine standards. Where Bluebeard Lived.

Most of our readers have heard of Bluebeard, the enterprising gentleman who made a hobby of marriage and had a way of his own for getting rid of superfluous wives. Probably very few people, however, know that the story has any sort of basis in fact. Yet on the banks of the world famous Bosporus near Constantinople there is situated a picturesque old medieval fortress known as "Bluebeard's castle" and which is said to have been the abode of a terrible old pasha, whose playful little ways gave rise to the story.—Wide World Magazine.

SIXTH DEATH IN THE NESHAMINY

Another Boy Drowned in Creek that has Claimed so Many Victims.

Lewis Silverman, 19 years old, lost his life in the Neshaminy creek on Sunday. He is the sixth youth to be drowned in the creek this year.

Young Silverman, whose home was in the vicinity of 6th and Race streets, Philadelphia, with two companions run up from the city on bicycles on Sunday to Neshaminy Falls. After spending some time about the park the boys concluded to go in to swim. Silverman's companions got in the water first and swam across to the opposite shore, Silverman followed, but when about half way over he disappeared beneath the surface of the water. The boys, by diving, made every effort to rescue their comrade, but could not locate him. Help was summoned, and after about an hour's search with grapling hooks the body was recovered by John C. Cornell, of Oakford.

Deputy Coroner Rue, of Bristol, was summoned and after examining the body it was turned over to Charles Haefner, the Hulmeville undertaker, who removed the corpse to his establishment from where it was shipped to the boy's home in Philadelphia.

Bristol A. C. to Play the Winona A. A.

On Saturday, August 12th, the Bristol A. C. will play the strong Winona A. A. of Philadelphia. This team played here earlier in the season and put up a good game and they claim they are going to wipe out their old defeat and a very fast game is expected. McNichol and McIlvaine will be the battery for the home team. Come out and root and show that you appreciate the ball that these youngsters are putting up. Game called at 3.30 sharp. Price 10c. Ladies admitted free.

Baseball Notes.

The Teddy Bears of Bristol defeated the Morrisville Reds on Wednesday by the score of 25 to 9.

The St. James baseball team would like to hear from any 14 or 15 year old teams in Bucks county. For games address Joseph Wood, Bath street.

Tomorrow afternoon the Bristol Field Club will play the strong Emerald team, of Burlington on the railroad diamond. Mitchell and Harvey will be the battery for the Field Club. Tyler and Ferguson for Burlington.

At a meeting of the Bucks County League held at Langhorne on Monday evening the Yardley and Ingersoll-Trenton teams resigned from the league. The league will finish the season with the four remaining clubs, Morrisville, Newtown, New Hope and American Bridge.

IN THE COURT OF COMMON PLEAS FOR THE COUNTY OF BUCKS.
June Term, 1911. No.

To Hugh Roberts, his legal representative, or whoever may be the holder or holders of the hereinafter mentioned mortgage.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that on the 3rd day of July, 1911, the petition of Gaines Ruger Donoho and Matilda Ackley Donoho, his wife, was presented to the above named court, setting forth that they were the owners of the premises hereinafter described and are still the owners of part thereof.

ALL THAT CERTAIN messuage, plantation, tract or parcel of land thereunto belonging, situate in the county of Bucks and State of Pennsylvania, BEGINNING at the low water mark of the River Delaware, thence extending north eight degrees west, one hundred and twenty-five perches or thereabouts by land of Folkert Vandegrift to a post, thence north eighty-two degrees east, twenty perches, thence north ten degrees west, sixty-seven perches, thence north sixty degrees east, by Leonard Vandegrift's land forty-nine perches to a post at a corner of Lawrence Growdon's land, thence by the said Lawrence Growdon's land, south twenty-nine degrees east, one hundred and ninety-one perches or thereabouts to the low water mark of the said river, thence down the same according to the several courses to the place of beginning, CONTAINING one hundred and three acres and one-quarter or thereabouts, be the same, more or less.

That an unsatisfied mortgage appears on record in the office of the Recorder of Deeds for the County of Bucks, dated December 18, 1769, and recorded February 25, 1770, in said county, in Deed Book No. 13, page 207, etc., given by Charles Willing, Benjamin Levy and Rachel Levy, his wife, to secure the payment of the sum of four hundred and seven pounds and three shillings (£ 407, 3 sh.)

That no assignment has been made of said mortgage and that no payment has been made of either interest or principal for a period of more than twenty-one years, and praying for the satisfaction thereof.

Whereupon the Court ordered and directed that the Sheriff of Bucks county serve a notice of the facts set forth in the petition, on the holder or holders of said mortgage, if they be found within the said county, and if not, then to give public notice thereof in the Bucks County Gazette, once a week for four weeks, requiring such holder or holders of said mortgage to appear on the first Monday of September, A. D. 1911, in said court, and answer the said petition and show cause, if any they have, why said mortgage should not be satisfied of record.

indeed, than the girl desired, for she was as angry as he was and argued with him only to dissuade him from actual physical violence. In this she succeeded, and yet Strickland managed to pay both Porter and Rockwell in full before he was done with them. Neither of them could be elected today to be dog catcher in his native city, for Strickland was capable of sustained animosity and had gifts of natural ability very dangerous to his enemies. But Wendell, whose reputation had been trifled with in so gross a manner, could never be led into this fight. The surface of his quiet life was not even ruffled by it. His sound good sense is an excellent background for the oppressive force of Strickland, now his son-in-law. But Wendell himself is a lover of peace and of the arts and of the hearth of home.

Handling a Haddock.

"There is no better place than a fish market to pick up queer superstitions," said a restaurant proprietor. "The other day I held up a fine specimen of haddock. The dealer, who was an Italian, nearly choked on the bunch of Neapolitan expletives that rushed into his throat.

"'Nevaire, no, nevaire take up haddock so,' he said.

"'How?' I asked.

"'By the head, so your fingers touch those dark spots on each side of the head,' he said. 'The curse fall on you if you do.'

"'Whose curse?' said I.

"'St. Pelaire's,' said he. 'St. Pelaire gave the haddock those dark spots. They are his finger prints. He catch haddock just so in the sea of Galilee, and every haddock born since then has shown those same marks. Let go.'

"And I did let go. Of course I did not believe it, but when I found that half the fish dealers in that market did believe I deemed it prudent to handle haddock by the body or tail."—New York Sun.

A Joke That Failed.

The clerk of a supply store in southern Colorado did not know Indian nature very well when he invited a Ute chief to a boxing bout. After explaining the use of the gloves, which the chief seemed to readily understand, they went into a vacant room in the rear of the store to spar. The gloves were adjusted, and the clerk invited the chief to hit him. This, of course, he failed to do, as Indians never strike with their hands in conflict. All at once the clerk struck out, and, catching the chief under the ear, landed him on the floor. This was enough. The Indian sprang to his feet, pulled off the gloves, jerked out a knife, and the clerk had to run for his life. Fortunately he managed to keep out of reach until some friends caught the infuriated Indian and held him until he cooled off. Then the clerk explained the joke, but with very poor success. The chief consented to forego vengeance for the insult, but he was never friends with the clerk again.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Ornamented With Scars.

The natives of some of the islands of the Pacific are always glad to see the doctor on his periodical visits. At Kaiser Wilhelm's harbor the German government has stationed Dr. Heisegang as medical officer. He is a busy man. Natives by the dozen come to him, not to be treated for illness, but to get the benefit of his professional opinion on how to scar themselves artistically. The natives are very fond of scars, and nearly all of them are covered with specimens which have resulted from self inflicted wounds which were kept open by frequent scratching or by the introduction of foreign substances like sand, bamboo, shells and so forth. The excrescence which results from the average vaccination is scratched off at the proper time, and the resulting large scar is very dear to the native. A young islander whose face and body are a mass of cuts, bruises and scars is considered the catch of the season by the dusky belles.

They Couldn't Help It.

During the American invasion of Porto Rico, in the course of the war with Spain, General Tasker H. Bliss with his troops, was stationed near a village held by an overwhelming force of Spaniards. Orders were to keep "hands off" and, if he heard anything to fall back about [illegible] of this his men captured the [illegible] which is consid[illegible]

Civilizing the Indian.

The following is from "The Soul of the Indian," a book by Dr. Charles Alexander Eastman, himself an Indian:

"Long before I ever heard of Christ or saw a white man I had learned from an untutored woman the essence of morality. With the help of dear nature herself she taught me things simply but of mighty import. I knew God. I perceived what goodness is. I saw and loved what is really beautiful. Civilization has not taught me anything better. As a child I understood how to give. I have forgotten that grace since I became civilized. I lived the natural life, whereas I now live the artificial. Any pretty pebble was valuable to me then, every growing thing an object of reverence. Now I worship with the white man before a painted landscape whose value is painted in dollars. Thus the Indian is reconstructed, as the natural rocks are ground to powder and made into artificial blocks which may be built into the walls of modern society."

Bigness of Big Ben.

Big Ben, which marks the hours for parliament at the top of the clock tower at Westminster, is bigger than it appears from below. Looking at the dial of Big Ben from the northern footway of Great George street or from the Thames embankment, it appears as if its diameter might be equal to the space that a man of medium size could cover with outstretched arms. As a matter of fact, however, the diameter of the dial is twenty-three feet. From the ground the minute marks on the dial look like ordinary minute marks and as if they were close together. Really they are a foot apart. The numerals are two feet long. The minute hand, with its counter balance—the heavy piece of metal that projects beyond the center of the dial—is fifteen feet in length. This hand is so massive that during a snowstorm the clock is sometimes retarded by the weight of the flakes that alight on it.—London Mail.

He Took the Cue.

He was a man who gave little and got much. Today, for instance, he had got a clothes brush, a basin of water, a towel and a shine, and he had given nothing at all.

Tr-r-r-ring! went his bedroom bell. The hotel attendant smiled sourly. This was the fourth time he had been summoned, and he did not hurry.

"I thought you were never coming," exclaimed the visitor when the attendant appeared at last. "Are you nicknamed 'Slowcoach?'"

"No, sir," answered the attendant. "They call me 'Billiard cue.'"

"Billiard cue!" repeated the visitor, frowning. Then an inspiration dawned. "Ah! Because you're such a stick, I suppose?" he asked.

"Wrong again, sir!" returned the attendant. "It's because I work better with a good dip."—London Answers.

A Herculean Katydid.

Experiments conducted by a naturalist attached to one of the government's scientific bureaus at Washington adduced an interesting example of the strength of the katydid. He harnessed a katydid to a kind of sled made by folding a piece of ordinary notepaper, and then loaded the sled with various articles. The insect proved able to draw, in addition to the original paper, twelve paper sheets each 3 by 4½ inches, a large screw, two steel pens, a stone weighing two ounces and three and a half lead pencils. When the weight became too heavy to draw otherwise, the katydid got its fore feet over the edge of the table for a better hold, and on the addition of another weight it increased the adhering power of its feet by moistening them in its mouth.—New York Tribune.

Not a Parallel Case.

A writer in the Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post tells of a big overgrown, bashful booby of a farmer's boy who was afraid even to speak to a girl, and whose father one day finally lost patience and scolded him roundly for not looking about and finding some girl to marry. "Why," he said, "at your age I had been married three years and had a house and farm of my own!"

"Well, but dad," complained the boy, "that ain't the same thing at all. You only had to marry mother, while I've got to go and hunt up some strange girl and ask her to marry me!"

Conferring a Title.

While he was governor of Kentucky Proctor Knott sent to the Hon. Stoddart Johnston a certificate, officially signed and bearing the impress of the great seal of the state, duly commissioning him as "Mister," which he said was a distinctive and honorable title that no Kentuckian had ever previously borne.

Lost and Found—a Heart.

Nothing seems so hopelessly lost when it is lost, as a heart; yet nothing, when it is lost, is by the experience of the centuries so absolutely certain of recovery.—Puck.

The Comeback.

Skinflint—I have no money, but I will give you a little advice. Beggar—Well, if yer ain't got no money yer advice can't be very valuable.—Christian Advocate.

A Matter of Color.

"Why do you refer to your youngest son as 'the black sheep?'"

"Because he paints the town red."—Toledo Blade.

You complain of ingratitude. Were you not repaid by your pleasure in doing good?—Levis.

Rockaway.

Rockaway was taken from the Indian term ackewek—"bushy."

Domestic Cats.

Among the attractive varieties of the domestic cats are the Maltese, of a bluish gray color; the Persian, with long white hair; the Angora, with very long silky hair, generally of a [illegible] shade, and the Span[illegible]

SUMMER NOVELTIES.

Made of Cretonne in Many Useful and Attractive Forms.

The cretonne sewing stand pictured here is not only pretty, but is a convenient adjunct to the summer porch or sewing room. It is made of cretonne mounted on a wooden frame and may be folded up and carried about to suit the convenience. All the sewing utensils and the threads are mounted on a flat section that slides down inside the stand when it is closed. A plain lining of silkoline or sateen matching the chief tone of the cretonne is put inside the stand. The home carpenter might provide the frame, and the housewife then could easily drape it and fit it for use.

A most convenient collar box covered with cretonne is of octagonal shape and has a groove in a little inside flap for holding the elusive collar buttons, which can be easily slid in and out.

Among the most useful and attractive of the numerous bags being shown are those of tapestry woven in pictures. Some of these are for carrying slippers, fan or opera glasses. One particularly well adapted to the latter purpose is made of a three inch wide strip of tapestry interlined with stiffening. This continuous strip forms the sides and bottom of the bag, the front and back of which are of plain fabric which is gathered at the top with a cord.

A new voluminous darning bag of cretonne has applied pockets and a needlecase on the outside. A particularly dainty and unique fancy bag is in the form of a Chinese lantern.

In the needlework department of one of the big stores was some pretty and effective work which is quite new. It is made from a heavy wiry silk thread which stands up like ribbon and by means of which beautiful work is easily and quickly accomplished. The colors are handsome, and, while the finished work exhibited was chiefly pillows, it has been used upon gowns and also in millinery. The method of use is taught where the materials are sold. In the French and Dresden bouquet effects now so popular this is especially striking.

Casement cloth is the name for the new stencil printed serim for use in country or beach homes. It is less expensive than the usual serims and has just enough color to make it appropriate for use in the summer cottage.

Wash Day Made Easy.

In an ordinary wash boiler put one and a half inches of water, then put in three-fourths to one bar of good laundry soap thinly sliced. Let it come to a boil, then put in one and a half to two tablespoonfuls of kerosene oil.

When the soap is all dissolved add enough water to fill the boiler two-thirds to three-fourths full, then put the clothes in. After boiling five to eight minutes they can be removed thoroughly white and clean. Without changing the water you can boil two or three successive batches of clothes.

This method beats all the washing machines ever made. In this way clothes require no rubbing. It saves nine-tenths of the labor on wash day. Try it and be convinced.

Raffia Slippers.

There are new bath slippers which are sanitary if not artistic. They are made of raffia, lined with blue or pink crash, and when soiled can be scrubbed inside and out and put in the sun to dry.

Tub Lore.

Do you know that a band of washing silk or soft linen the size of the waist sewed inside a knitted golf jersey before it is washed will prevent it from stretching and keep it in perfect shape?

To remove wet paint from white material wash the stain with soap and water, then boil in water to which a little kerosene has been added. Again rub between the hands, using soap and hot water.

Dry paint on white material can easily be removed by soaking the stain in turpentine to soften the medium which hardens it to the fabric. It should then be rubbed in the turpentine and washed in soap and water, finishing with ordinary washing.

Paint stains that are old and dry may be removed from woolen goods with chloroform. First cover the spot with olive oil or butter. When the stain is on a fabric the color of which is apt to be destroyed moisten first with a little oil, then remove with ether.

He Didn't Know.

One June day in 1862 near Fredericksburg, Va., General Stonewall Jackson saw one of General Hood's Texans climbing a fence to get into a cherry tree. "Where are you going?" shouted Jackson. "I don't know," replied the soldier. "To what command do you belong?" "I don't know," the Texan replied. "Well, what state are you from?" "I don't know." Jackson gave the man up, but he asked a comrade what it all meant. "Well," was the reply, "Old Stonewall and General [illegible] have orders yesterday that we don't know anything until after [illegible] left to his cherries.

Tsar and Czar.

Frequently the inquiry is made as to why the spelling tsar, to designate the emperor of all the Russias, should be preferred to czar. The most natural and obvious answer is that the spelling indicates the Russian pronunciation of the word, which czar does not. The title comes from an old Slavonic word, which some authorities are agreed is not derived from the Latin caesar, but there are authorities who hold that its ultimate derivation is from the Roman. The origin of the common spelling is supposed to be the writings of Herberstein, about 1550. The letter "c" in Roman-Slavonic has the sound of "ts." The letter was copied, but the sound was not. The letter "z" never belonged in the word. The spelling czar is now regarded by many as old fashioned. With some Germans the spelling is zar, which is pronounced tsar. Many of the French have adopted tsar as the spelling, and that form is increasing in English. The London Times, a most careful authority, employs it, and so does the Encyclopedia Britannica in its supplementary volumes.—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Green Constable.

A new constable on duty in a provincial town handed to a sergeant a shilling which he said he had found. The man with the three stripes told him he was quite right in acting as he had done. Proceeding on his round, the sergeant met a brother sergeant and, with a grin, told him the tale of the shilling. They both agreed the new recruit was very green, and at the conclusion of their duties they went to the nearest inn, and the possessor of the coin called for two drinks. On receiving them he threw down the shilling to pay for them, but the landlord refused it, saying it was a bad one. The sergeant, notoriously mean, had to supply the requisite amount out of his own pocket and also to put up with the laugh against himself. On his telling the constable his find was a bad one the man answered: "Yes, of course it was. Do you think I would have been silly enough to give it to you if it hadn't been?"—Pearson's.

Why Thackeray Was Moved to Tears.

A lady, an intimate friend and a frequent visitor at the Thackeray home, called late one afternoon. She was shown into the study, and on entering perceived the novelist himself seated at his desk, his head bowed upon his arms. Fearing she was intruding in the presence of some great and unknown grief, she paused, hesitating. Then, thinking she might be of some help or at least express her sympathy, she stepped forward. Just then Thackeray looked up. His shoulders were shaking, the tears streaming from his eyes.

"Little Nell is dead," he said brokenly.

"Little Nell?" his visitor interrogated.

"Yes, Little Nell," was the answer. "She is dead. I've just been reading it." Before him on his desk lay an open copy of "Old Curiosity Shop."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Quaint Cures of Old.

For epilepsy wear a ring made from a coffin ring and take seven drops of blood from the tail of a cat. These remedies are equally efficacious either separately or in conjunction. For toothache carry in the pocket the tooth of a soldier killed in battle or eat mouse nibbled bread or trim your nails on a Friday. To cure warts, rub a potato and give the potato to a pig, or rub them with a piece of chalk, then put it in a little bag and throw it across crossroads. Holding the affected finger in the ear of a cat for half an hour was reckoned an excellent remedy for a felon.

They Eat Them.

"So you are raising chickens?" said the city friend.

"Yes," answered Mr. Crosslots.

"What do you find the greatest menace to the welfare of poultry?"

$3 50 Recipe For Weak Kidneys Free.

Relieves Urinary and Kidney Troubles, Backache, Straining, Swelling, Etc.

Stops Pain in the Bladder, Kidneys and Back.

Wouldn't it be nice within a week or so to begin to say goodbye forever to the scalding, dribbling, straining, or too frequent passage of urine; the forehead and the back-of-the-head aches; the stitches and pains in the back; the growing muscle weakness; spots before the eyes; yellow skin; sluggish bowels; swollen eyelids or ankles; leg cramps; unnatural, short breath; sleeplessness and the despondency?

I have a recipe for these troubles that you can depend on, sir. If you want to make a quick recovery, you ought to write and get a copy of it. Many a doctor would charge you $5.00 just for writing this prescription, but I have it and will be glad to send it to you entirely free. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, K. 32, Luck Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send it by return mail in a plain envelope. As you will see when you get it, this receipe contains only pure, harmless remedies, but it has great healing and pain-conquering power.

It will quickly show its power once you use it, so I think you had better see what it is without delay. I will send you a copy free—you can use it and cure yourself at home.
